FBI says probing Philadelphia police shooting as terrorist attack

(Reuters) The FBI is investigating the recent shooting of a Philadelphia police officer as a terrorist attack, FBI Director James Comey said on Wednesday, a Pennsylvania newspaper reported. Comey's comments at a Federal Bureau of Investigation field office in Pittsburgh and reported by the Pittsburgh Tribune-Review, were confirmed to Reuters by an FBI spokesman. FBI investigators were seeking to find out if suspected gunman Edward Archer, 30, was in touch with or inspired by anyone linked to Islamic State, the report said. Philadelphia police have said Archer pledged allegiance to the militant group before allegedly opening fire on police officer Jesse Hartnett in his patrol car last Thursday night. "Your parents' al Qaeda was a group that was focused on national landmarks, sophisticated ... events, carefully chosen operatives, lots of surveillance, and then trying to deliver the big thing. That was al Qaeda's culture," Comey said, according to the newspaper. "This is entirely different, first in the way the message comes. They are crowd-sourcing terrorism, using Twitter and other forms of social media to try to motivate anybody" to conduct an attack, he was quoted as saying. Police said on Sunday that a man stopped officers patrolling near the site of the attack and warned that Archer had been part of a group of four men who may pose a danger to police. In the attack caught on video, a gunman police say was Archer was seen shooting into a patrol car driven by Hartnett, 33, who was shot in the arm but managed to fire back. Archer, who sustained a bullet wound to the buttocks, was arrested at the scene and charged with attempted murder. Archer, police say, told them that the attack was done "in the name of Islam."

Jakarta attacks: Explosions and gunfire rock capital

(Al Jazeera) At least seven people have been killed in a series of coordinated bomb and gun attacks in central Jakarta, Indonesia's police told Al Jazeera, as blasts rang out of the capital's downtown area. An unknown number of people were injured in the security operations at the Sarinah shopping complex on Thamrin Street in Jakarta's central district on Thursday. Police said the attack has ended and that security forces were in control of the area. Earlier police reports said five gunmen were killed and that another five policemen and seven civilians were also dead. Police later revised the toll to a total of seven, including four attackers. All six blasts occurred about 50 meters apart in the central business district, which also houses a United Nations office. Earlier, tweets from the account of Jeremy Douglas, regional representative of the UN office on Drugs and Crime for Southeast Asia and the Pacific, described a bomb and "serious" exchanges of gunfire on the street outside his office. Al Jazeera's Step Vaessen, reporting from Jakarta, said a police post was destroyed in a grenade blast and that sporadic gunfire was heard in the downtown area of the capital. "Six gunmen on motorbikes entered the downtown area carrying long rifles, shooting into the crowd, with some carrying explosives," Vaessen said. "One of the gunman shot a police officer from close range." Some gunmen on motorbikes reportedly escaped, police sources told Al Jazeera. "Witnesses told Al Jazeera that they found nails on the streets near the affected area, indicating that the fragments came from the explosives used in the attacks," Vaessen said. The attacks caused panic and prompted a security lockdown and enhanced checks in several areas in the city of 10 million. "The police are still investigating so we don't know how and why the attack happened. There were at least six explosions, and so far it looks like the police was the target," our correspondent said.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

NORTHERN CALIFORNIA AND CENTRAL COASTAL AREAS:

Eureka Weather:

Another Pacific storm will bring rain and high elevation snow today. Gusty winds will be observed later today primarily along the near coast and coastal uplands. The wet weather pattern will continue through the weekend.

Medford Weather:

A cooler air mass will bring the snow levels down to the Cascade and Siskiyou pass levels and down to Mt. Shasta City.

Reno Weather:

A series of storm systems will impact the sierra through next week with periods of gusty winds, mountain snow, and valley rain. The next storm will bring moderate amounts of snowfall to northeast California and the Lake Tahoe region this afternoon through late tonight.

San Francisco Weather:

A weak frontal boundary will bring a period of light rain later today into Friday morning. Then a series of systems will affect the area Saturday through Tuesday.

WEATHER

WEATHER SYNOPSIS BY REGION:

CENTRAL CALIFORNIA AND SOUTHERN SAN JOAQUIN VALLEY:

Sacramento Weather:

Wet pattern will continue through at least next week with Pacific storms systems coming through northern California every one to two days. Today's system will bring rain and mountain snow with possible mountain travel difficulties and moderate snow levels. A bit higher snow levels this weekend and next week but still below major pass levels.

Hanford Weather:

Expect mostly clear skies today with patchy morning fog possible in the San Joaquin Valley this morning then variable clouds and periods of light rain and snow for the next several days as weak disturbances continue to move through Central California.

SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA:

Los Angeles weather:

Light rain is possible Saturday with the best chances north of Point Conception. Otherwise, fair skies with periods of light to moderate offshore winds and cool temperatures will prevail. Temperatures warm slightly Sunday before rain chances return Monday night through Tuesday.

Extreme Southwestern California including Orange, San Diego, Western Riverside and Southwestern San Bernardino Counties:

Dry weather will continue through early next week with periods of high clouds at times and temperatures slowly warming to near average. For the middle part of next week, a trough of low pressure moving inland through California will bring a chance of showers.

Southeast California Weather:

A series of weak storm systems will move through this week clipping the Sierra and southern Great Basin with some shower chances at times. Gusty winds will impact the Sierra and western Mojave Desert today and Friday. Temperatures through the weekend are expected to be near normal. Another system looks to arrive during the middle of next week.
